

Boren Scholarship Program – UM Undergraduate Student Application Instructions

The Office of Prestigious Awards and Fellowships strives to ensure that each student is submitting the strongest, most complete impression of her or his candidacy when applying for nationally competitive awards. The instructions below are designed to meet this objective.

UM undergraduate applicants for Boren Scholarship Program must submit the application materials in the following way no later than January 6, 2023 (campus deadline):

To be submitted online at the Boren Website: www.borenawards.org:

- Boren Application – You must submit your application online by the campus deadline. Submitting your application will allow the UM Boren Campus Representative to view it. By submitting your application online, you are NOT sending it to the Boren Scholarship Coordinators in Washington D.C. This will be done in February, after the Office of Prestigious Awards has reviewed your application, and if you are nominated by the institution. You will have an opportunity to make changes to your application between the campus and national deadlines; however the rating of your application will be based on the application submitted by the campus deadline.
- 2- 3 Letters of Reference. (Tip: Provide your recommenders with at least a preliminary draft of your Boren essays, so they have a clear idea of your motivations and can address how your abilities and interests match the goals of the Boren program – this is very important!)
- Transcripts of all universities or colleges attended (unless these grades appear on your UM transcript).

The PAF Office will review these materials and will contact eligible applicants to schedule a meeting to discuss their application. Only applicants who submit by the campus deadline will be able to meet with the PAF office. Late applicants cannot be accommodated. The PAF Office will provide feedback on the application and complete the confidential Student Rating form. The Student Rating form will be included in the student's complete application packet which will be sent to the Institute of International Education in Washington DC by the national Boren Scholarship deadline in February.

Graduate students will apply directly through Boren and will not go through a campus review process.

Applicants will have an opportunity between the campus and national deadlines to make edits to their application based on the feedback. After making changes, applicants MUST resubmit their applications in the online application before the campus deadline.

Feel free to contact prestigiousawards@miami.edu if you have questions. Be sure to review all online materials and resources to ensure that your questions is not already addressed in the wealth of material online.
